

Cross correct questions

Has no traffic lights	For pedestrians and equestrian animals (horses)	Has zig-zag lines	Wait for the cars to stop before crossing
For pedestrians and cyclists	Stands for Pedestrian User-Friendly Intelligent Crossing	Also known as equestrian crossings	Has WAIT on the signal control
Because 'two can' cross	Stands for pedestrian light-controlled crossing	Uses sensors to control the traffic lights	Shows the green and red man on the traffic light pole
Has traffic lights	You should wait for the green man before crossing	Has flashing amber (yellow) beacon lights	Shows the green and red man above the button
Vehicles must stop when the light is red	Vehicles should stop when they see a pedestrian approaching the crossing	Pedestrians need to press the button to control the lights	Has white and black lines on the crossing

Zebra crossing

Pelican crossing

Puffin crossing

Toucan crossing

Pegasus crossing

Answers

Question	Answer	Question	Answer
Has no traffic lights	Zebra crossing	Has zig-zag lines	All
For pedestrians and cyclists	Toucan crossing	Also known as equestrian crossings	Pegasus crossing
Because 'two can' cross	Toucan crossing	Uses sensors to control the traffic lights	Puffin crossing Pegasus crossing Toucan crossing
Has traffic lights	All except zebra crossings	Has flashing amber (yellow) beacon lights	Zebra crossing
Vehicles must stop when the light is red	All except zebra crossings	Pedestrians need to press the button to control the lights	Pelican crossing
For pedestrians and equestrian animals (horses)	Pegasus crossing	Wait for the cars to stop before crossing	All
Stands for Pedestrian User-Friendly Intelligent Crossing	Puffin crossing	Has WAIT on the signal control	Pelican crossing
Stands for pedestrian light-controlled crossing	Pelican crossing	Shows the green and red man on the traffic light pole	Pelican crossing
You should wait for the green man before crossing	All except zebra crossings	Shows the green and red man above the button	Puffin crossing
Vehicles should stop when they see a pedestrian approaching the crossing	Zebra crossing	Has white and black lines on the crossing	Zebra crossing